NEW BOOKS OF SPECIAL INTEREST

LONDON FILMS

By W. D. Howells

The record of Mr. Howells's recent sojourn in London shows this admirable writer in his happiest vein. His delightful talk about London is most engaging. He draws illuminating and humorous contrasts between New York and the English metropolis, chatting delightfully of London weather, the street sights and noises, his rambles about town, the parks and churches, and his adventures with English lodgings and hansoms. The commentary is enlivened with much humor and agreeable bits of gossip.

A HISTORY OF OUR OWN TIMES

Volumes IV and V

By Justin McCarthy

In these new volumes (IV and V) the author brings his admirable history to completion from the Diamond Jubilee of the reign of Queen Victoria to the accession of Edward VII. Among the events covered are the trouble in Corea; the Peace Conference of 1899 at the Hague; the growth of English complications with Far East problems; the Boer War; the Irish Nationalist Agitation; labor questions; the position of women in civic affairs; modern educational and philanthropic movements.

Vols. IV and V (uniform with Vols. 1-111). Illustrated. $1.40 net each.

AMERICAN DIPLOMACY ITS SPIRIT AND ACHIEVEMENTS

By John Bassett Moore

This series of papers by Professor Moore, the greatest living authority on the history of American diplomacy, has commanded wide attention, both in this country and abroad. It places many facts before the public for the first time, and shows how the American policy of carrying on international dealings squarely and above board has caused American diplomacy to be acknowledged as one of the great formative forces in modern history.

Illustrated with portraits. Price, $2.00 net.

THE GERMAN STRUGGLE FOR LIBERTY

By Poultney Bigelow

This new volume (vol. IV) recounts the stirring events in Germany during the years 1844-48, culminating in the declaration of Frederick William IV and the meeting of the German National Assembly at Frankfort. The volume is the fourth and last of a series which has been well received and is now complete from the battle of Jena in 1806 to the rebirth of the national spirit in 1848.

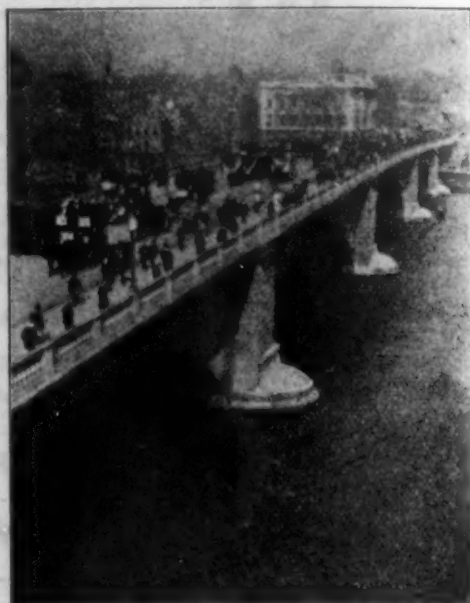

Vol. IV (uniform with Vols. I-III). Illustrated, Price $2.25 net.

THE PRINCIPLES OF MONEY AND BANKING

By Charles A. Conant

A systematic treatise on money and banking. The scope of the book carries the reader from the beginnings of exchange, when cattle and bits of metal passed by tale or weight, down through the origin of coinage to the method of modern banking and credit. The author, who has had a part in framing the monetary policies in various countries, brings the touchstone of experience to bear upon his work.

The Literary Biography of the Season

The Life of Charles Lamb

By E. V. LUCAS

Editor of "The Works and Letters of Charles and Mary Lamb," etc.

2 Volumes. 8°, with 50 Illustrations, net $6.00

Mr. Lucas has succeeded in this biography in reconstructing the Lamb circle, welding together autobiographical passages from Lamb's Essays and letters and references to Lamb by other writers, such as Hazlitt, Talfourd, Procter, Wainwright, DeQuincey, Coleridge, Wordsworth, and others, in such a way as to show in every light the most fascinating and the most lovable figure in English Literature. He has had the good fortune, as a result of painstaking researches, to secure much new information and material and an important group of new Lamb letters.

"The first really complete and adequate life of that singularly delightful writer and most lovable man. Mr. Lucas, whose patient and affectionate labor has done so much to elucidate the charming pages of Lamb has now placed the crown upon his work. One of the best pieces of literary work produced for many years."—London Spectator.

"For all the happiest things that have ever been said about Lamb, the enthusiasts will find in these two volumes a happy hunting-ground. We finished the book not with a note of admiration after a brilliant display of rhetoric, but with a quiet sigh of unfeigned sorrow at a forced parting from a very dear friend. . . ."—London Times.

What God Hath (not) Joined

Orr Kenyon's

Great book on the divorce question.

CONDEMNED? Certainly. Did you ever know of a really powerful presentation of naked facts on such an important subject as Divorce go unanswered?

"I fear its total influence will be hurtful."

—Rev. THOS. R. SLICER, D.D.

"The teaching of the book is unwholesome, and the more dangerous because suggestive."

—Rev. J. G. BUTLER, D.D.

PRAISED? Yes, strongly. We could print columns, but have room at present for only these:

"You have ably discussed a great living question on which the world and the church need enlightenment."

"Did not sleep till I finished it. The book is charming—true to life—and the growing interest increases till the last word is reached."

NOTES IN SEASON.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have just ready an account of "The War in the Far East," by the military correspondent of the London Times, one of the keenest observers of the conflict between the Russians and Japanese.

THE FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY publish this week a practical book on "Childhood," by Mrs. Theodore W. Birney, the founder and honorary president of the Mothers' Congress. The book has been highly recommended by Professor G. Stanley Hall, the great authority on child psychology, and others.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. make an announcement of particular interest in the beginnings of American literature, printing and book-selling. The work is to be entitled "A Literary History of Philadelphia and Its Neighborhood," and is being prepared by Dr. Ellis Paxson Oberholzer, who, as the author of "Robert Morris, Patriot and Financier," the editor of the "American Crisis Biographies," etc., is amply qualified to deal with the subject. The author will give a particularly full account of the development of the publishing trade in Philadelphia.

MOFFAT, YARD & Co. will publish immediately a modern edition of "Æsop's Fables," with an introduction by Elisabeth Luther Cary, and sixteen colored and nineteen line illustrations by J. M. Condé. They also announce the publication, in full color, of W. L. Taylor's celebrated "Pictures from Longfellow." The set, now nearly ready, shows four pictures, "Home Keeping Hearts Are Happiest," "Maidenhood," "The Skeleton in Armor" and "The Golden Legend." The delicacy and beauty of Mr. Taylor's superb color are admirably reproduced in these fine lithographs.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish on the 16th inst. "The Country House," by C. E. Hooper, who gives special advice on the site, planning and building of the house, on its outside finish, the style of doors, windows and fireplaces, on plumbing, heating, lighting and ventilation, water supply and drainage, and the style, size and equipment of every room, together with a chapter on contracts and specifications. On the 20th inst. they will publish the authorized edition of Dr. C. C. Schilling's book, "Flashlights in the Jungle," which will contain all the original text and the 320 original illustrations.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have brought out this week "The Life of James Anthony Froude," by Herbert Paul, one of the most important biographies to be published this year. A great amount of new and interesting material in regard to Froude's life and career has been gathered for this new book. Mr. Paul, who is one of the most brilliant writers of the day in England, has had the personal assistance in the preparation of the biography of Miss Froude and of Ashley Froude, the historian's only son, and has had access to the Froude family papers. For the first time Froude's relationship to the Oxford movement and the real motives and influences that affected his career have been made public. They have also just ready "In the Name of the Bodleian, and Other Essays," by Augustine Birrell, a pleasant and interesting volume on such subjects as "Book Worms," "Old Pleasure Gardens," "Lawyers at Play," "Gossip in a Library," etc.; also, "The Fairy Godmother-in-Law," by Oliver Herford, illustrated by the author, considered to be the most whimsical, original and unexpected verses and drawings Mr. Herford has ever created.

This first volume of the "Life of Goethe" by the foremost authority of recent times was published in 1895. The author died in 1902. For the last ten years of his life the government relieved him of all his duties as Professor in the Berlin University in order that he might devote himself entirely to his great life of Goethe. A chronic illness had made it impossible for him to accomplish his regular work besides his great work of research. The second volume was finished by others and appeared in 1903. It is far larger than the first, and it was thought better to make the English translation in three volumes. All the verses quoted in book are given in German, but translations that have been furnished regard accuracy of thought beyond the highest literary finish. The translator is professor of German at the Leland Stanford University.

This fourth volume gives the stirring events in Germany during the years 1844-1848, culminating in the declaration of Frederick William IV. and the meeting of the German National Assembly at Frankfurt. Special attention is given to the growth of the influence of the laboring classes and of socialist doctrines under Marx and Engels, and comparison is made between the revolutions in Vienna, Munich and Berlin. A fifth volume is promised. Bibliography (4 p.).

The author is associate professor of Egyptology and Semitic languages in the University of Chicago. Entirely based on recent original research. A mission to the museums of Europe to collect their Egyptian monuments for a commission of the four Royal academies of Germany (Berlin, Leipzig, Goettingen and Munich) in order to make these documents available for a great Egyptian dictionary endowed by the German Emperor enabled the author to copy from the originals practically all the historical monuments of Egypt in Europe. And then he has spent years in Egypt in preparation. As an up-to-date criticism of works on Egypt the work is invaluable. Designed for layman as well as scholar.

Collection of letters written by or to Mr. William Henry Brookfield, the English clergyman, and his wife. They were friends of Thackeray, Tennyson, the Hallams, Carlyle, Edward Fitzgerald, Monckton Milnes, and others of the brilliant men and women of Mid-Victorian literary life. The majority of these letters, which have been collected by a son and daughter of the Brookfields, are written by either husband or wife, though there are many from Thackeray, who considered Brookfield as one of his two dearest friends. Mrs. Brookfield was the original of Lady Castlewood in "Henry Esmond."

Fair Margaret is studying singing in Paris at the age of twenty-two. She lives at Versailles with an American countrywoman of the old school. Margaret is told by a great singer that she has a marvellous voice and an engagement is secured. She is booked to begin her career with "Faust," but later this is changed to "Rigoletto." The plot hinges on the last act when the "sack scene" is to be given. Two men play a part in Margaret's life. She flirts desperately with both. The end points to a continuation. The life of singers and the nature of artists are skillfully drawn.

The author, who has been an officer in the U. S. Army, corps of engineers, and is also a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, accomplished this journey in the latter half of 1903, in the company of a French army officer. They travelled from the Caspian Sea east through Russian and Chinese Turkestan to the Tibetan plateau; thence to Bombay. Unhampered by any political obligations, Mr. Crosby could examine and judge the conflicting influences at work in this part of Asia. This volume is not a transcript of a journal, but the summing up of experiences and observations. He made a special study of the effect of climate and religion upon human society. There are numerous illustrations, a good map and an index.

Life of the great Pope, born about 546, of a noble Roman family. He was "for many years the foremost personage in Europe, and did more, perhaps, than any other single man to shape the course of European development." Strange as it may seem, inasmuch as Pope Gregory was the means of introducing Christianity among the English, no comprehensive biography of him, in English, has appeared until the present work. The author, who is a Fellow of Lincoln College, Oxford, has divided his two-volume work into three sections, the first two dealing with the history of Gregory, the third exclusively with his theology. A full general index, an index of Gregory's life, work and doctrines, and a table of dates complete the volumes.

Hughes, Rupert. Zal: an international romance. N. Y., Century Co., 1905. [O.] c. 4+346 p. D. cl., +$1.50.

The title is a Polish word meaning a hopeless sorrow. A young Pole, a pianist, electrifies the musical world of the United States, but does not reach the full development of his genius until a certain quality has entered into his music which is only produced by the "Zal." A girl of a rich New York family representing herself as a professional is accepted as his pupil and through her comes the Zal. The picture of the endless work of a professional musician is worked into the plot. A happy ending follows much "Zal."

The materials for this work have been gathered in most part at first hand in the course of several Continental journeys. The author first met Brahms in 1871 when she took lessons from him at Lichtenthal, a suburb of Baden-Baden. Her recollections of her intercourse with the musician during this time and on several succeeding occasions are contained in an introductory chapter. The biography proper covers each detail of his career with some technical account of his compositions. Appendices of the first volume contain notes on musical form, Programme music, Rules of the Hamburg Ladies' Choir, etc., while those of vol. 2 contain a chronological catalogue of Brahms' works, Works edited by him, and an arranged catalogue, and index.

Written to promote the spirit of harmony in religious discussions. "Its main purpose is to illustrate the fact that antithetic, and even apparently irreconcilable, religious conceptions are often to be regarded as needing to be combined in order to express the fulness of the body of truth that is to be found in the oracles of God and in the Christian life." The author does not formulate a system, he merely pleads for a broader and more sympathetic judgment of the conflicting views which only divide instead of further cultivating the knowledge of the Christian world.

Suffering with brain collapse from overwork, the author spent three summers among the loftiest mountains and finest scenery along the chain of the Divide, from Mt. Assiniboine to Mount Columbia—the highest peak in Canada yet conquered by the mountaineer. He has combined some striking narratives of others with a fund of new experiences. There is no attempt at scientific treatment of the botanical, geological or zoological features. The author sees only as an enthusiast.

Peabody, Francis Greenwood. Jesus Christ and the Christian character: an examination of the teaching of Jesus in its relation to some of the moral problems of personal life. N. Y., Macmillan, 1905. 7+304 p. D. (Lyman Beecher lectures at Yale University, 1904.) cl., $1.50.

In his previous book, "Jesus Christ and the social question," Prof. Peabody has considered the teaching of Jesus in relation to some of the problems of modern life. Here, however, it is applied to the personal character, by the upbuilding of which the greatest good will come to the world at large. Taking the character of Christ as the perfect type, the author examines the roots of Christian character, its growth, its personal and social consequences and the ascent of ethics and descent of faith. In short, this is a study of Christian ethics.

Peters, Madison Clinton, D.D. The Jews in America: a short story of their part in the building of the republic; commemorating the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of their settlement. Phil., J: C. Winston Co., 1905. c. 138 p. D. cl., $1.

Thanksgiving-Day, November 30, is the 250th anniversary of the settling of the Jews in America. In "Justice to the Jew," and "The Jew as a patriot" the author has shown his conviction that the Jews should rank among the better element of citizenship. He considers the faults of the Jews can be traced to his fellow citizens. Jews are healthy, long-lived and law-abiding and their family life is exemplary.

The author is pastor of the Brick Presbyterian Church, New York City. In his ethical and practical rather than doctrinal treatment he maintains that in the conflicts attending and following the Protestant Reformation those men who made much of God's sovereignty were also the successful champions of human freedom. He shows that the same forces still battle and that the like faith may be needed again. He traces to the Calvinistic faith of Holland and Scotland that Europe and America are free today to make their own laws and worship God in their own thoughts and their own prayers.

The author, an American by birth, has lived for six years in Madrid as correspondent of several English, French and American papers. This volume is the outgrowth of study and knowledge. In the opening chapters he gives a brief sketch of the history of Spain as an aid to the better understanding of the influences that have effected its architecture. Then follow descriptions of the various cathedrals of Galicia, the North, and Castile, and in an appendix there are the tabulated dimensions and chronology of each cathedral. The book is bound in decorated covers and is fully illustrated.

Tigert, J. Ja., D.D. The Christianity of Christ and His apostles: historical studies of fundamental New Testament problems. Nashville, Tenn., Publishing House of Methodist Episcopal Church, South, (Smith & Lamar, Agts.,) [1905.] c. 9+208 p. D. cl., 80 c.

After a wide range of reading that has tended to shake the foundations of his faith, the writer remains orthodox. His book is to make clear to others tossed by much theological criticism the fundamental truths as taught by Jesus and his first followers, Van Vorst, Marie. Miss Desmond: an impression. N. Y., Macmillan, 1905. [N.] c. 7+268 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

Virginia Desmond, a New England maiden lady in the thirties, had been summoned from her pillared colonial house in the vicinity of Boston to chaperone a young niece recovering from typhoid among the beautiful Swiss lakes. The niece's mother has been divorced and has made a brilliant second marriage and is still "talked about" much to her sister Virginia's discomfort. Circumstances awaken Miss Desmond; she loves a man she thinks wicked, but she sacrifices herself and resigns the man to her niece. After some years her reward comes to her in the autumn garden of her beautiful New England home.

Wertheimer, E: de, comp. The Duke of Reichstadt (Napoleon the second): a biography compiled from new sources of information. N. Y., J. Lane Co., 1905. 16+462 p. il. por. O. cl., *$5 net.

The hero of Rostand's l'Aiglon was the ill-starred son of Napoleon I, and Marie Louise of Austria. By the succession of historical events he was known as King of Rome, Prince of Parma, Napoleon II, and Duke of Reichstadt. He was born March 20, 1811 and died July 22, 1832. He died too young to find scope for his capacity to rule which seems to have been of a high order. His death was a severe blow to those Frenchmen who thought that with him they had lost the guarantee against the aggression of foreign powers. The author has made exhaustive search among the archives of France and Austria and has found much new material.

Book derived from record of several summers passed in Florence. Author makes living again to the reader some of the great writers who have been so closely associated with Florence. Among these were the Brownings, Lady Blessington, Frances Power Cobbe, Charlotte Cushman, George Eliot, Trollope, Henry James, James Russell Lowell, the Storys, Harriet Beecher Stowe, and many more that came and went in Florence from 1821 to 1864. Gotten up as a holiday book. Some of the photographs were taken expressly for this volume, and the frontispiece is from Charles Caryll Coleman's oil portrait of Landor in his latest years, owned by Miss Whiting, and which has never before been reproduced.

Whitney, Helen Hay, [Mrs. Payne Whitney.] Verses for Jock and Joan; pictures by Charlotte Harding. N. Y., Fox, Duffield & Co., 1905. c. 32 p. col. pls., F. bds., $1.50.

Wilson, Bingham Thoburn. The village of Hide and Seek; il. by W. Herbert Dunton. N. Y., Consolidated Retail Booksellers, 1905. c. 190 p. O. cl., †$1.25.

Two children, who have been driven away from the village inn by a cross grandfather, are led by an old woman, a reputed witch, up the mountain-side to the village of Hide and Seek. It is a village of tiny play houses, lived in by dolls and ruled over by this witch, who is a sister of Santa Claus and Queen of the dolls. The story tells all that befell the children in this delightful place.

Wood, W. Birkbeck, and Edmonds, J. E. A history of the civil war in the United States, 1861-65; with an introd. by Spenser Wilkinson. N. Y., Putnam, 1905. 17+549 p. maps, plans, O. cl., $3.50 net.

A compilation from authentic American works by two English army officers. The subject is treated mainly from a strategical standpoint. The political and diplomatic side of the war is only alluded to when it exercised a direct influence upon the military course of events. The naval operations are dealt with in a separate chapter, and to the accounts of the more important battles are added appendices emphasizing the chief points of controversy. Detailed maps illustrate the various campaigns, and tactical plans accompany the account of the chief battles.

PICK-UPS.

A HUMBLE HUSBAND.—Mrs. Julia Ward
Howe was having an afternoon at home, and the reception rooms were filled with those whose names are well known in the literary and artistic world. A young granddaughter was pouring tea, and late in the afternoon was asked for a cup by a man unknown to her,
who said as he took it:

"Every one here seems to be somebody or doing something. What do you do?"

"Oh, I'm only Mrs. Howe's granddaughter," the girl told him.

"You are content to shine in a reflected light," he said in a manner she thought so patronizing that she retaliated by asking him what he did.

"Oh, I shine in a reflected light, too," he said amiably. "I'm Mr. Humphry Ward."—

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

NOVEMBER 18, 1905.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

POST-OFFICE REORGANIZATION.

THE Postmaster-General has taken a first step, and a long one, in the reorganization of the Post-Office Department along business lines. Without waiting for any amendment of the law by Congress he has acted within the law by readjusting the several divisions of the department into logical relation with each other. It is evident that he has in mind such a reorganization of the department as will bring it into line with the modern business methods of a successful corporation. One of the weaknesses of the department was the absurd manner in which divisions having no relations with each other were jumbled together under one of the Assistant Postmasters-General, while cognate divisions were separated under other jurisdictions. This resulted, on the one hand, in serious confusion and cross-current of authority, and on the other, in absurd rivalries, so to speak, as between the registry and money order divisions of the Department.

The new order brings into the office of the Postmaster-General himself what may be called the staff official proper; groups under the jurisdiction of the First Assistant Postmaster-General the appointment and control of postmasters and the administration of post-offices; gives to the Second Assistant Postmaster-General the charge of transportation and relieves him of certain incongruous divisions; charges the Third Assistant Postmaster-General with care for the financial relations of the Department, including the money order and registry systems, and the sale and redemption of stamps, retaining the division of classification in that office; and entrusts the rural free delivery, the cognate division of topography, and like relations, to the Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General. We have from time to time pointed out, in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, the desirability of such grouping as a sine qua non of good administration, and we hail the present change as an evidence both of the Postmaster-General's intention to do and his ability to plan the right thing.

THE Harper reorganization committee gives notice that the holders of $1,000,000 of the income bonds out of the total of $1,778,773.32 outstanding have assented to the proposed exchange of these securities for the preferred stock, at the rate of fifty cents on the dollar, as proposed by the committee, and fixes December 1, 1905, as the date by which others desiring to participate should signify their assent. No further information has been given, however, on which to form a judgment as to why this course is desirable, and it is not easy to see that any holder of income bonds will gain by the change or suffer any harm by failing to participate; nor has it been stated whether those assenting to the change are those in whose interest such a change would be. There is evident an indisposition on the part of some holders of income bonds to make the change without further information.

COPYRIGHT CONVENTION WITH JAPAN.

THE announcement that a copyright convention between Japan and the United States has been satisfactorily concluded, and is on the eve of being signed, is confirmed by the State Department. There has been diplomatic correspondence relative to this treaty for a number of years. The official text of the agreement is expected shortly and will be printed by us in a forthcoming issue.

VALUABLE MANUSCRIPT RETURNED.

THE copy of Bede's "Super Cantica Cantorum," a priceless illuminated manuscript of the thirteenth century, which was reported last week to have been stolen from the library of Gray's Inn, has been recovered. A workman engaged on the building on the 10th inst. found the book wrapped in a newspaper and conveyed it to the authorities of the Inn.

REORGANIZING THE POST-OFFICE.

POSTMASTER-GENERAL CORTELYOU, according to a special despatch to the New York Tribune, "has quietly completed a thorough reorganization of the entire Post-office Department, which will go into effect December 1. Notable in the new organization are the following: The grouping of everything affecting post-offices, from the appointment of the postmaster to the control of the movement of the mails within the jurisdiction of the larger offices, under the First Assistant; the confining of the duties of the Second Assistant to all transportation of the mails other than that which comes within the jurisdiction of the larger offices; the transfer of the Money Order Division to the Third Assistant, who already controls the registry system and all other revenue producing sources of the department; the transfer to the Fourth Assistant of the topographic division, which is chiefly engaged in making maps for the rural free delivery service, already under the control of the Fourth Assistant, and the centralization of all supply divisions under his control.

"While the abolition of the somewhat ludicrous spectacle of the registry and money order divisions resorting to a species of competition more suitable to petty business competitors than to branches of the government service, and the centralization of all supplies under a single head responsible to the Fourth Assistant, will constitute the most noticeable improvement which will immediately follow the reorganization, numerous others, less obvious, are regarded as certain to be effected by the new arrangement.

"The new arrangement will be put in operation by the following order, which will be issued by the Postmaster-General on November 14:

"It is hereby ordered that the Division of Appointments, Division of Bonds and Commissions, and the Division of City Free Delivery, heretofore under the supervision of the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, be transferred and assigned to the First Assistant Postmaster General; that the Division of Money Orders, heretofore under the supervision of the First Assistant Postmaster General, be transferred and assigned to the Third Assistant Postmaster General; that the Division of Files and Records, under the supervision of the Third Assistant Postmaster General, be abolished and its personnel and work assigned to the office of Chief Clerk of that Bureau; that the office of the Topographer, heretofore under the supervision of the Postmaster General, and the Division of Dead Letters and the Division of Postoffice Supplies, heretofore under the supervision of the First Assistant Postmaster General, be transferred and assigned to the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, that the division superintendents, the rural agents, and the clerks at Division Headquarters, Rural Free Delivery Service, heretofore under the supervision of the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, be transferred and assigned to the Postmaster General (Division of Postoffice Inspectors and Mail Depredations); and that all clerks in the Department engaged in handling supplies and in the work incident thereto be transferred and assigned to duty in the Division of Supplies, office of the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General; and that the organization of the Postoffice Department shall be as follows:

Office of the Postmaster General—Chief clerk, private secretary, Assistant Attorney General, purchasing agent, chief inspector (Division of Postoffice Inspectors), appointment clerk, disbursing clerk.
Office of the First Assistant Postmaster General.—Division of Appointments, Division of Bonds and Salaries and Allowances, Division of City Delivery, Division of Correspondence.

Office of the Second Assistant Postmaster General—Division of Railway Mail Service, Division of Foreign Mails, Division of Railway Adjustments, Division of Contracts, Division of Inspection, Division of Equipment.

Office of the Third Assistant Postmaster General—Division of Finance, Division of Stamps, Division of Money Orders, Division of Registered Mails, Division of Classification, Division of Redemption.

Office of the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General—Division of Rural Delivery, Division of Supplies, Division of Dead Letters, Division of Topography.

The regulations of the Postoffice Department are hereby amended in conformity with the foregoing transfers and designations.

This order is to take effect December 1, 1905.

GEORGE B. CORTELYOU, Postmaster General."

Under the reorganization secured by the Postmaster-General's order the broad plan upon which the department's work is now allotted may be summarized as follows:

Postmaster-General—Direction and supervision of the postal service.

First Assistant Postmaster-General—Postoffice personnel and management.

Second Assistant Postmaster-General—Transportation of the mails.

Third Assistant Postmaster-General—Postal finance.

Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General—Rural free delivery and miscellaneous postal business.

MODERN BOOK ILLUSTRATION.

AT a meeting of the New York Library Club, at the Library of the General Theological Seminary, on the afternoon of the 9th inst., the subject of "Book Illustration" was discussed, particularly in relation to historical and scientific books and current publications. George Hawes Whittle, of the art department of the Century, spoke of the principles of simplicity and unity that must underlie the illustrator's work, and the thorough sympathy with the text that is necessary if it is to be properly interpreted. Victor H. Paltsits, of the Lenox Library, said that bogus illustrations were a common characteristic of historical books. Publishers did not discriminate between actual portraits or bonafide drawings and purely imaginative pictures in the illustration of histories. For example, he said that there is no known portrait of Columbus, the existing pictures being simply different types created by early chroniclers; yet, nevertheless, these are used in most school and standard histories with no statement of the fact. No known portrait of Jacques Cartier exists; yet what purports to be such appears in many histories, though it is merely a creative picture taken from an old painting by a French artist. One of the most popular manuals of the history of old New York, he said, was supplied largely with bogus illustrations, such, for instance, as the familiar picture of Peter Stuyvesant's house on the old Bouwerie, which he characterized as an unauthentic picture, "faked" or altered in minor details by successive publishers in order to present a slightly different appearance in different books. Frank Weitenkampf, curator of the Print Department of the New York Public Library, spoke briefly upon the formation of print departments in public libraries, the collection of material and its varied uses. Mr. Bostwick spoke of bogus scientific pictures, instancing the picture in so many encyclopædias showing the funnel-shaped cloud of a tornado, which he said was wholly imaginary, as until recently at least no photograph or actual sketch of this existed. He referred also to the practice of having text prepared, often of a valueless character, to fit a given series of pictures, as being the raison d'être of many illustrated books. In the discussion the inartistic character of many so-called art gift-books was pointed out, and it was said that the greatest bane of modern book illustration were "the girl"—of the Gibson, Christy and kindred varieties—and the half-tone. An exhibition of examples of illustrative work was shown after the meeting in the Bible room of the seminary.

ENGLISH BOOKS IN DEMAND.

THE following books, according to the London Book Monthly, were most in demand in England during October:

Captains All. W. W. Jacobs.

Ayesha. H. Rider Haggard.

On Company's Service. W. Pett Ridge.

A Maker of History. E. Phillips Oppenheim.

For Richer or Poorer. Edith H. Fowler.

The Red Reaper. John A. Steuart.

The Parson's Wood. Violet A. Simpson.

My Life. Alfred Russel Wallace.

Autobiography of Samuel Smiles. Edited by T. Mackay.

Life of the late Edward Granville. Lord Edmund Fitzmaurice.

THE SCRIBNER EXHIBIT OF FIRST EDITIONS.

THE usual fall exhibition held by Charles Scribner's Sons is this year devoted to an extraordinary collection of the first editions of one hundred famous books. This gathering begins with a sumptuous folio of St. Thomas Aquinas, printed by Mentelin at Augsburg in 1463—eleven years before Caxton began his famous press at Westminster—and extends through more than three centuries, almost to the modern era, in Goethe's "Wilhelm Meister" of 1795. The most important and valuable book in the exhibition is a superb copy of Pliny's "Historia Naturalis" from John de Spira's press at Venice in 1469. This, the masterpiece of Spira's famous press, is a magnificent specimen of book making even at a time when books were works of art. This copy has been illuminated by Girolamo di Cremona. Of popular interest is a copy of the editio princeps of the "Imitatio Christi" printed about 1471. Among the rarer items are the Augustine's "Civitate Dei" of 1466; the Herodotus of 1474; the Euclid of 1482; the Plato of 1513, besides the first editions of Sophocles, Euripides, Thucydides and Aristophanes. Here may be seen also the first editions of Froissart Chronicles, of Holinshed's Chronicles, of Gerarde's fascinating Herball, with its quaint and beautiful wood-cuts, of the first complete Chaucer in its original vellum binding, of Montaigne's "Essais," and Sidney's "Arcadia." For the bibliographical expert here are such choice rarities as Coryat's "Crudites," 1611 (John Davies's of Hereford copy), Baxter's "Saints' Everlasting Rest," the first (Latin) edition of Fox's "Book of Martyrs," Watt's "Hymns and Songs" (1707), of which but three copies are known, and George Fox's curious and extremely rare "A Battle-Door" (in defence of the Quaker Thou). French literature is amply represented by totally uncut copies of the first editions of Molière's "Les Femmes Sçavantes," and Racine's "Mithradate," the latter enriched by the addition of his autograph signature, and the four exquisite little volumes of Fénelon's "Les Aventures de Telemaque." A copy of Boileau's "Œuvres Diverses" contains a three-page autograph letter of Boileau to Racine, and some satiric verses on a mezzotint portrait of himself. Lessing's "Fabeln" and Goethe's "Wilhelm Meister" may be mentioned among the masterpieces of German literature, while of the English literature of the eighteenth century here are to be found almost all the famous books of that century famous in literature, many in unique state and all enriched by manuscript material of great interest and value. The exhibition opened on November 15 and will continue for one week.

$1000 FOR A TEXT-BOOK.

THE EMMA WILLARD ASSOCIATION has decided to offer a prize of not less than $1000 for the best text-book on law and business adapted to the needs of women and for use in girls' schools. A committee has been appointed to arrange the details of the contest, and is expected to report at an early date.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CRESTON, IND.—Beecher & Miller, booksellers, have closed out.

HARTFORD, CONN.—Smith & McDonough, booksellers, have dissolved partnership. W. J. McDonough will continue the business.

NEW YORK CITY.—A creditor's petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Hudson Publishing Company of 11 East Sixteenth Street, which was a sub-company of Merrill & Baker and was incorporated under Maine laws with a capital stock of $100,000.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE Chicago Bookseller has absorbed Latest Literature, and will hereafter be known as The Bookseller and Latest Literature, and be published by C. A. Huling and a staff of assistants from Downer's Grove, Ill., with an editorial office at 88 Washington Street, Chicago.

THE Chicago Record-Herald will publish its seventh annual book number on December 2, of which issue an extra number will be sent to the booksellers in the West and Northwest. A feature of this number will be a review of recent publications suitable for holiday gifts, the résumé being accompanied with illustrations.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & COMPANY announce a new magazine, to be called "Farming," with the sub-title of "An Illustrated Home Magazine Devoted to the Living and Growing Things on the Farm." It will make its appearance early during the coming year. It is expected that this magazine will do for the real farmer what the Garden Magazine does for the gardener. It is planned to make it a live, practical magazine, covering every interest of the intelligent and progressive farmer. The subscription price will be one dollar the year and ten cents the single number.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have just ready the fourth and concluding volume of "Auction Prices of Books," edited by Luther S. Livingston. Aside from its intrinsic value as a work of reference, the work deserves also distinction for having been brought out within a remarkably short period of time after its first announcement. Only the few who have been engaged in similar work will be able to appreciate this promptness which in the issue of such a work is a boon for which its subscribers cannot be too grateful. With these four volumes of "Auction Prices of Books," and the annual issues of "American Book Prices Current," and the English "Book Prices Current," the bookseller will be better equipped to do business than ever.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HURST & Co. have brought out a reprint of Longfellow's "Tales of a Wayside Inn" in ten of their series at prices ranging from twelve cents to 75 cents trade prices. Stock is now ready for shipment.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS announce the first volume of "The Royal Collections of Paintings at Buckingham Palace and Windsor Castle," and Howard Pyle's new book, "The Story of the Champions of the Round Table," fully illustrated by the author.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Stationers' Board of Trade, held on the 14th inst., it was voted to give the usual dinner early next year. The following committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements: William B. Boorum, Jr., James C. Aikin, Robert Ansley, Eberhard Faber, Lyman B. Sturgis and David A. Tower.

E. P. DUTTON & COMPANY announce the "Life of Mary of Modena, Queen of James II.," by Martin Haile. Shortly after the death of his first wife James married Princess Mary of the house of Este. She was the only Italian queen who ever shared the English throne. The author draws freely on contemporary letters and despatches, and illustrated his volume with thirteen photogravures from contemporary letters.

D. C. HEATH & Co. will publish shortly a volume of "Deutsche Reden," prepared by Dr. Rudolf Tombo and Professor Rudolf Tombo, Jr., of Columbia University. It will furnish representative speeches by Bismarck, Bülow, Moltke, Schurz and others, together with suitable biographies, explanatory notes, maps and portraits. It will offer interesting and instructive reading for the general reader or for advanced college classes.

A. WESSELS COMPANY have secured the first long novel written by Edgar Saltus since 1903 and are the fortunate publishers of "The Perfume of Eros: a Fifth Avenue Incident." New York society with characters that are living, logical men and women, will enter into the new work of the author of "The Pace That Kills;" "The Anatomy of Negation," and the many other works that always show the author's great talent, although they sometimes make his readers regret his lack of repose and self restraint.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have just brought out Bliss Carman's third volume of prose essays, entitled "The Poetry of Life." The author's keynote is "the poetry of beauty, sincerity and elation," and with this as a central theme he has written sixteen essays on such significant subjects as "The Purpose of Poetry," "How to Judge Poetry," "Defense of Poetry," "Cheerful Pessimism," etc. He has also included his essay on the poetry of Swinburne, and appreciative and sympathetic articles on the poetry of Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and James Whitcomb Riley.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. will publish the latter part of this month, the Rev. Washington Gladden's book, "The New Idolatry." It is in spirit a protest against the commercializing of government, of education and of religion; against the growing tendency in church and state to worship power and forget the interests of justice and freedom; against the dethronement of God and the enthronement of Mammon. Several of the papers were called out in the recent controversy respecting the relations of the church to ill-gotten wealth. The others deal with the larger relations and obligations of citizenship.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will have ready November 20 "A Memoir of Dr. James Jackson," by James J. Putnam, including a sketch of the father, brothers and ancestry of this founder of the McLean Asylum and the Massachusetts General Hospital, of which Dr. Jackson was first physician until he resigned in 1825; "The Farce of Master Pierre Patelin," composed by an unknown author about 1469 and Englished by Richard Holbrook, illustrated with facsimiles of seven woodcuts in the only known copy of the edition published by Pierre Levett, Paris, about 1489; and "Northland Heroes," by Florence Holbrook, containing the stories of Fridtjof and Beowulf, the most famous of the Northland heroes.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. have a very dainty book in "Shakespeare's Sweetheart," by Sara Hawks Sterling, purporting to be the love story of Anna Hathaway, written by herself and entrusted to Ben Jonson, which has just been found among old archives. There is a third printing ready of "Bright Ideas for Entertaining," by Mrs. Herbert B. Linscott; a fifth printing of "The Girl and the Deal," by Karl Edwin Harriman; and a large second printing of "Knocks, Witty, Wise and —," by Minna Thomas Antrim. Other books making rapid strides to popularity are "Phases, Mazes and Crazes of Love," a companion to the "Knocks"; and "Dolly's Theatricals," by D. Gwyn Jeffreys, a very clever juvenile for clever children.

THE CONSOLIDATED RETAIL BOOKSELLERS, having withdrawn from the jobbing business—selling most of their stock to the Baker & Taylor Company and to A. C. McClurg & Co.—are devoting their energies now to developing their publishing business, in which direction they have already accumulated a number of titles. They will bring out on November 25 a new work of fiction entitled "Minna, Wife of the Young Rabbi," by Wilhelmina Wittigslager, with illustrations by W. Herbert Dunton. The story is woven around a beautiful girl from among the Russian Jews, but not of them, and carries her along through exciting periods to a climax that culminates in the assassination of Alexander II. of Russia.

THE JOHN C. WINSTON COMPANY will publish shortly a work by Col. A. K. McClure of the first importance to Pennsylvanians and of national interest to many who are not sons of the Keystone State. Colonel McClure is one of the few conspicuous men living who took an active part in making the history of the last century. As editor of a great newspaper, his acquaintance included every prominent man of his time, and no one else could write so intimately and well these "Old Time Notes of Pennsylvania." The work will be issued in two large 8vo volumes, illustrated with rare portraits and pictures. A special limited edition will be signed by the author. They will bring out in January "Andiron Tales," an inimitable new book, by John Kendrick Bangs. Clare Victor Diggins has illustrated the text profusely, and it will be published with a number of full-page color plates.

A. S. BARNES & Co. announce for immediate publication "Sea Shore Life," by Dr. Alfred Goldsborough Mayer, an elaborately illustrated and popular description of the invertebrates of the New York and adjacent coast. This is the first volume of the New York Aquarium Nature Series prepared under the auspices of the New York Zoological Society, with an introductory note by Charles H. Townsend, Director of the New York Aquarium. The author, Dr. Mayer, is the director of the Marine Biological Laboratory of the Carnegie Institution at Tortugas, Florida. His descriptions of sea anemones, star fish, crabs, lobsters, shrimps, sand bugs, oysters, scallops, squid, and the many forms of invertebrate shore life in the North Atlantic are written in popular form and furnish means of identification as well as entertaining accounts of the anatomy and physiology of the various species and their habits. Mr. Townsend points out that while the book is prepared by a zoologist of the highest standing it is thoroughly popular in character and presents the facts of modern zoological investigation so clearly that it is peculiarly attractive to the general reader as well as to the nature student and teacher. The illustrations which are mostly from the author's photographs of living specimens in the New York Aquarium and elsewhere form in themselves an exceptionally fine representation of sea shore life.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just brought out "The Menace of Privilege: a Study of the Dangers to the Republic from the Existence of a Favored Class," by Henry George, Jr., a brief plain presentation of the problems that are arising in this country and ominously pressing for solution; "Little Novels of Italy," the third volume of the edition de luxe of "The Works of Maurice Hewlett"; "The System of the Stars," by Agnes M. Clerke, extensively recast from the original edition of fifteen years ago, and with a large number of new illustrations; "A General View of the History of the English Bible," by the late Brooke Foss Westcott, revised by William Aldis Wright; "The Prevention of Senility and a Sanitary Outlook," which consists in two addresses by Sir James Crichton-Browne; and "Science of Common Life," consisting in a large number of interesting experiments, showing the scientific principles underlying every-day phenomena, by A. T. Simmons and E. Stenhouse. They will publish shortly a new "Dictionary of German Quotations," said to be notably full, inclusive and informing; five of Clyde Fitch's plays in separate volumes, the first of which will be "The Climbers"; the "Young Germany," sixth and concluding volume of Professor Brandes's "Main Currents in Nineteenth Century Literature," also, a new book by Professor Erastus Palmer, of the College of the City of New York, and L. Walter Sammis, on the "Principles of Oral English."

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplaced, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

30 days more of Christmas trade—a hint to booksellers of your customers' Christmas book list

Back Home

By EUGENE WOOD

Illustrated by A. B. Frost
Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

Back home! Back to the good old country village where you passed your childhood. No one knows how many memories he has in common with his neighbors, from Maine to California, till these papers wake him up, shake him up with laughter, and now and again bring a touch of tears along with the merriment.

My Friend the Chauffeur

By C. N. and A. M. WILL-IAMSON

With Sixteen Illustrations
Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

Sunny romance is the keynote of this new automobile story by the authors of "The Lightning Conductor." A young English nobleman takes a trip with a motor-car through the Italian lake region, Venice, and into Dalmatia, with the skittish widow of an American millionaire, her precocious daughter, and her charming niece.

The Work of Our Hands

By H. A. MITCHELL KEAYS

Author of "He that Eateth Bread With Me."

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

A young woman brought up in somewhat straightened circumstances marries the millionaire son of a great mill owner of her town. She values money for the power it gives her to better the condition of other people. When she begins to practice her belief, with the aid of her husband's money, among his downtrodden, mill employes she invites his opposition and brings on a tragic struggle.

The Pang- Yanger

By ELMA A. TRAVIS, M.D.

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

An extraordinary tale of primitive love and passion, of hate and revenge, the scene of which is laid in the Catskills, and the protagonists of which, Abijah Bead, the hardy mountaineer, and Barbara Hurst, the passionate Southern girl, are contrasted types of American manhood and womanhood.

The Fortunes of the Landrays

By VAUGHAN KESTER

Five Illustrations by The Kinneys. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

Never has so much of the life of our country been put between the covers of a novel—the frontier days of Ohio, the gold excitement of '49, the trail of the pioneers and their prairie schooners to the West across the plains and Mormon Utah, with its Indian massacres and white man's treacheries, the Civil War, the boom town period of the Middle West, and the beginning of the industrial period in the Ohio valley.

Told by Uncle Remus

By JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS

Illustrated by A. B. Frost
$2.00

"Br'er Rabbit, Br'er Fox, Mr. Dog, Sis Cow"—do you know them? of course you do. Then you will be glad to know that there is another Uncle Remus book, with more stories by that wonderful story teller, Uncle Remus. If there is a child in your home, gladden its heart with the new Uncle Remus stories. If there are no children, read it yourself, and be young once more.

The Ancient Landmark

By ELIZABETH CHERRY
WALTZ

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

A young, beautiful and sensitive woman married to a drug fiend believes that nothing can justify divorce, and her friends and the social circle to which she belongs agree with her. The entire book is occupied in telling how she gradually came to believe in her right to her own life, in which she was helped by a real love for a man whom she could also respect.

Two Unusual Books

FOR CHILDREN

By LUCILE LOVELL

"ANDY"

THIS is the greatest book of its kind since "Fauntleroy," and appeals to children and grown-ups alike. No one can resist Andy. He is an unusual boy, and the account of how he won a place for himself is an unusual story, told with delicate pathos and rare humor.

"The WALCOTT TWINS"

THE funniest book about children since "Helen's Babies." The twins look just alike, and when they mischievously change clothes and the girl goes to the house of a bachelor uncle, while the boy visits a maiden aunt, there are side-splitting complications. A wholesome, jolly story, and a universal favorite.

Wife of the Young Rabbi

By WILHELMINA WITTIGSCHLAGER

Drawings by W. HERBERT DUNTON

Handsomely bound in red cloth. Embossed with the Russian National Arms

Price $1.50

This story will prove a sensation in fiction. It is woven around a beautiful girl born among the Russian Jews, but not of them, and carries her along through exciting periods to a climax that culminates in the assassination of Alexander II. of Russia. ¶ From the time when this beautiful girl runs away from her bridegroom of but a few hours (whom she is forced to marry) to the end, the reader is fascinated with this story of love, intrigue, action, and pathos. It is a powerful book, for the author writes with feeling and delicacy, and with her knowledge and accuracy has given the work coloring both vivid and unique.

THE PERFUME of EROS

A Fifth Avenue Incident

By EDGAR SALTUS

12mo, Cloth, Decorative, $1.25

The publishers confidently believe that "THE PERFUME OF EROS," the first long novel since 1903 by the author of "The Pace That Kills" and "The Anatomy of Negation," will add materially to the already large number of Mr. Saltus' admirers.

A vivid picture of New York society, and a plot that will hold the reader's attention, while its outcome is unexpected.

The characters are logical living men and women, such men as one expects to meet in the society which the author portrays.

COMPLETION OF THE American Catalog 1900-1905

The Second (or Supplementary Volume) nearly ready

We are now completing the printing of the second volume of the new "American Catalog, 1900-1905," which will be ready for delivery in November.

The first volume, issued in June last, is a complete record in itself, being a dictionary-catalog of all books recorded between January 1, 1900, and January 1, 1905. In its one alphabet every book is entered at least three times (by author, title and subject), with information as to size, price, publisher, year of issue, etc. It forms the latest addition to the old series of the "American Catalogue," published in quarto form, while the newest volume is an octavo, which is generally conceded to be a much handier shape. We can reasonably affirm that every dealer needs such a permanent catalog in his business, while every library of importance should have this standard bibliographical work on its shelves, since its usefulness in the world of books is on a par with a time-table in the railroad world.

The second, or supplementary volume, contains the full title entries, with annotations, given in the "Weekly Record" of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY during the five years 1900, '01, '02, '03, '04, cumulated into one alphabet for each year; that is, into five alphabets. This is planned to answer the demands of librarians, booksellers and others who wish this valuable material, in available shape, for classifying and describing and for permanent reference.

For the book dealer the second volume is a very useful record of book valuation. It gives in form for ready reference brief descriptive notices of the important books published during the period mentioned, describing concisely the contents of each work and explaining many titles which, in themselves, mean little or nothing or are misleading. For descriptive cataloging, a bibliographical work of this kind is almost priceless.

The two volumes are uniformly bound in half morocco. The price is $12.00 for both or $7.50 for either separately. The edition is limited, but 240 copies of the first volume and 145 of the second volume remain unsold. We reserve the right to advance the price when the balance of either is reduced to 100 copies.
